

NATE LOPER

September 22-27, 2026

ABOUT NATE

Nate Loper is an outdoor educator, guide, and teacher at heart - someone shaped by time in the field and a deep curiosity about the past. His work reflects many years spent exploring museums and landscapes around the world and engaging the physical evidence of history firsthand. Whether teaching geology at the Grand Canyon, biblical history in museums, or behind the pulpit, Nate is known for a grounded, relational approach that makes complex ideas clear and accessible. His teaching reflects a desire to help others see the connection between the world around them and the truth and reliability of scripture. 1000+ days teaching at the Grand Canyon. Former Executive Director at Canyon Ministries. Education in Biblical History and Archaeology. Science, Bible, and History school teacher. Guide in various national parks and museums. Conducts extensive trips and tours internationally. www.CanyonMinistries.org
